Join us as we gather students from various ASEAN universities at RECONSA 2014 to share their altruistic ideas, thoughts, and experiences. Carrying the theme "Volunteerism: Interconnecting Lives", it is hoped that participants will widen and deepen their knowledge on voluntary activities to make even the smallest change to the world and to achieve the impossible when it comes to giving a helping hand. The objectives of this Conference are to:

- Enrich the ideas of creating a conscious society that practices volunteerism in a new appropriate and comprehensive manner
- Reinforce the concept of well-rounded students who excel in academics while simultaneously achieve high performance in volunteering. These activities will contribute directly to society and nurture the culture of research based programs among students.
- Provide a platform for students to think critically and creatively in presenting their ideas and interacting with others from different backgrounds.

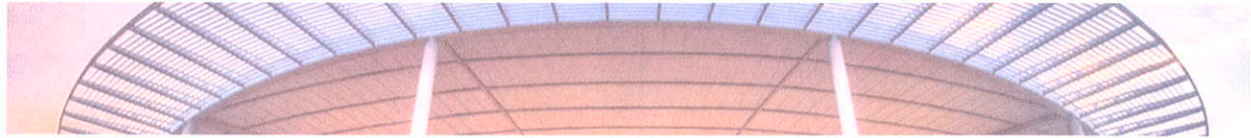

In relation to the above, we would like to invite students at your esteemed institution to participate in this conference. The final paper submission deadline is 24th October 2014. For further details on RECONSA 2014, please refer to the attached brochure.
